

people from across the country to attend its own in-person dating forum next month, after a number of popular online dating services, including Tinder, stopped working in the country.